ABSTRACT

The institutions and agencies in this directory sponsor federally funded TRIO programs that enable students from low-income families to enter college and graduate. The TRIO programs (originally only a "trio" of programs) include Talent Search, Student Support Services, Upward Bound, Upward Bound Math and Science, Veterans Upward Bound, Educational Opportunity Centers, and the Ronald E. McNair Post-Baccalaureate Achievement Program. Students in the TRIO programs mirror the multicultural and multiethnic U.S. society. Thirty-nine percent of TRIO students are White, 36% are African American, 16% are Hispanic, 5% are Native American, and 4% are Asian American. Sixteen thousand TRIO students are disabled, and more than 25,000 U.S. veterans are currently enrolled in TRIO programs. This directory lists all institutions and agencies that sponsor federally funded TRIO programs. For easy access, institutions and agencies are listed by state and by program. (SLD)

COUNCIL FOR OPPORTUNITY IN EDUCATION

The Council represents institutions of higher education, administrators, counselors and teachers who are committed to diversity and opportunity in America's colleges and universities.

The Council is a nonprofit organization, established in 1981, dedicated to furthering the expansion of educational opportunities throughout the United States, the Caribbean and the Pacific Islands. Through its numerous membership services, the Council works in conjunction with colleges, universities, and agencies that host TRIO Programs to specifically help low-income Americans enter college and graduate.

Federal TRIO Programs (Upward Bound, Upward Bound Math Science, Veterans Upward Bound, Talent Search, Student Support Services, Educational Opportunity Centers and the Ronald E. McNair Post-Baccalaureate Achievement Program) help students to overcome class, social, academic and cultural barriers to higher education. TRIO services include: assistance in choosing a college; tutoring; personal and financial counseling; career counseling; assistance in applying to college; workplace and college visits; special instruction in reading, writing, study skills and mathematics; assistance in applying for financial aid; and academic assistance in high school or assistance to re-enter high school or college.

The Council's work with educational opportunity organizations has contributed to several significant accomplishments:

- an estimated two million students graduating from college;
- the integration of 2,400 TRIO Programs into college campuses, serving nearly 723,000 students (two-thirds of whom come from families with incomes under $24,000 – family of four);
- the establishment of performance standards that are subject to specific outcome measures. Each program's continued funding is dependent upon meeting quantifiable objectives related to college entrance and graduation rates;
- increased national awareness of equal educational opportunity issues and diversity in America's colleges and universities; and,
- leveraged $760 million in FY 2001 to support TRIO Programs ($174.9 million in 1985).

Dear Reader:

The institutions and agencies that appear in this directory sponsor federally funded TRIO Programs. These programs enable students from low-income families to enter college and graduate. The TRIO Programs include Talent Search, Student Support Services, Upward Bound, Upward Bound Math and Science, Veterans Upward Bound, Educational Opportunity Centers and the Ronald E. McNair Post-baccalaureate Achievement Program.

Students enrolled in today's TRIO Programs mirror our nation's multi-cultural and multiethnic society. Thirty-nine percent of TRIO students are White, 36% are African-American, 16% are Hispanic, 5% are Native American and 4% are Asian American. Sixteen thousand TRIO students are disabled. There are more than 25,000 U.S. veterans currently enrolled in the TRIO Programs.

TRIO college graduates are working in business, industry, government, medicine, law, education, communications, sales, finance, politics, transportation, publishing, law enforcement, computer science & technology, engineering and accounting.

As a community, TRIO Professionals nationwide stand together with parents, students and alumni to promote and protect these vital programs. However, if we expect all Americans to bridge the gap to educational opportunity and to fully participate in our global economy, the TRIO Programs must be expanded to give over 11 million Americans from low-income families a realistic chance to enter and graduate from college.

Many of the colleges, universities, and community agencies listed in this publication are institutional members of the Council for Opportunity in Education (the Council). Council members work to advance equal educational opportunity and actively promote diversity in America's colleges and universities. For additional information about TRIO Programs or the Council, please visit our website at www.trioprograms.org.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Arnold L. Mitchem, Ph.D.
President

WHAT IS TRIO?

Our nation has asserted a commitment to providing educational opportunity for all Americans regardless of race, ethnic background or economic circumstance. In support of this commitment, Congress established a series of programs to help low-income Americans enter college, graduate and move on to participate fully in America's economic and social life. These programs are funded under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 and are referred to as the TRIO Programs (initially just three programs). While student financial aid programs help students overcome financial barriers to higher education, TRIO programs help students overcome class, social and cultural barriers to higher education.

Who Is Served?

As mandated by Congress, two-thirds of the students served must come from families with incomes under $24,000, (family of four) where neither parent graduated from college. Over 2,400 TRIO Programs currently serve nearly 723,000 low-income Americans between the ages of 11 and 27. Many programs serve students in grades six through 12. Thirty-nine percent of TRIO students are White, 36% are African American, 16% are Hispanic, 5% are Native American and 4% are Asian American. Sixteen thousand TRIO students are disabled.

How It Works

Over 1,200 colleges, universities and agencies now offer TRIO Programs in America. TRIO funds are distributed to institutions through competitive grants.

Evidence Of Achievement

The Council and the TRIO Community have consistently promoted evaluations of the TRIO programs. Three evaluations, each conducted under contract with the U.S. Department of Education, are currently underway: a WESTAT evaluation that examines the impact of Student Support Services on retention, hours completed and gradepoint average; an evaluation of Upward Bound by Mathematica Policy Research that examines impact of project services on courses taken during high school, high school graduation, college enrollment, college choice and college retention; and lastly, an evaluation of Talent Search that is still in the planning stages.

Impact of Student Support Services

The WESTAT evaluation followed 2,900 Student Support Services students at 30 colleges and universities through their third year of college. It found that these TRIO students—despite working an average of 26 hours per week—had a 22% greater chance of entering their third year of college than similar students without benefit of TRIO. WESTAT also documented that Student Support Services positively impacts gradepoint average and course completion for students enrolled. This on-going WESTAT study reinforced findings that intensity of services provided each student is a critical factor in retention.

Upward Bound

Mathematica Policy Research is in the process of following 2,800 students who were randomly selected to participate in 67 Upward Bound projects nationally. At the time of their last report, about 22% of the students in the study had entered college while most remained in high school. (About 11% of the students in the study dropped out of high school, compared to 35% of low-income students nationally.) Sixty percent of the students who had been enrolled in Upward Bound and were of an age to have graduated from high school had enrolled in college. This is more than double the college enrollment rate of low-income students nationally. The study stressed the importance of including in Upward Bound "hard to recruit students" such as those who do not see themselves as college graduates, since the impact on their success is particularly significant. Moreover, the study stressed the importance of increasing the length of time students are enrolled in Upward Bound, for length of enrollment is also significantly related to impact.

TRIO PROGRAMS AT A GLANCE

Talent Search

Talent Search programs serve young people in grades six through twelve. In addition to counseling, participants receive information about college admissions requirements, scholarships and various student financial aid programs. This early intervention program helps young people to better understand their educational opportunities and options. Over 323,541 Americans are enrolled in 361 TRIO Talent Search programs.

Upward Bound

Upward Bound helps students prepare for higher education. Participants receive instruction in literature, composition, foreign language, mathematics and science on college campuses after school, on Saturdays and during the summer. Currently, 772 programs are in operation throughout the United States.

Upward Bound Math Science

Upward Bound Math Science helps students from low-income families, where neither parent graduated from college, strengthen math and science skills. In addition, students learn computer technology as well as English, foreign language and study skills. Over 124 programs are serving students throughout the country.

Veterans Upward Bound

Veterans Upward Bound programs provide intensive basic skills development and short-term remedial courses for military veterans to help them successfully transition to postsecondary education. Veterans learn how to secure support from available resources such as the Veterans Administration, veterans associations, and various state and local agencies that serve veterans. Approximately 4,200 participants are served annually.

Student Support Services

Student Support Services helps students to stay in college until they earn their baccalaureate degree. Participants, who include disabled college students, receive tutoring, counseling and remedial instruction. Students are now being served at 796 colleges and universities nationwide.

Educational Opportunity Centers

Educational Opportunity Centers, located throughout the country, primarily serve displaced or underemployed workers. These Centers help people to choose a college and a suitable financial aid program. There are over 82 Educational Opportunity Centers in America serving 158,036 individuals.

Ronald E. McNair Post-baccalaureate Achievement Program

Ronald E. McNair Post-baccalaureate Achievement programs encourage low-income and minority undergraduates to consider careers in college teaching as well as prepare for doctoral study. Named in honor of the astronaut, who died in the 1986 space-shuttle explosion, students who participate in this program are provided with research opportunities and faculty mentors.

TRIO: TALKING POINTS

The TRIO Programs were originally established by the federal government in 1965 to ensure equal educational opportunity for all Americans, regardless of race, ethnic background, or economic circumstance.

TRIO Programs are effective and many students from low-income families depend on these programs to succeed academically in high school and college. In fact, since 1965, an estimated two million students have graduated from college with the special assistance and support of our nation's TRIO Programs. In addition, one TRIO Program in particular, the Ronald E. McNair PostBaccalaureate Achievement Program, is one of only a few programs in America that encourages low-income and minority undergraduates to prepare for doctoral study.

Although 11 million Americans critically need to access the TRIO Programs, federal funding permits fewer than 7 percent of eligible youth and adults.

In many communities, the TRIO Programs are some of the only programs that help students to overcome class social, academic and cultural barriers to higher education. The educational and human services offered through TRIO Programs are distinguishable from all other counseling programs in America because TRIO Programs are:

One-On-One

As most TRIO Programs serve fewer than 250 students, TRIO counselors have an opportunity to work one-on-one with each student. Unlike traditional counseling programs, TRIO professionals get to know each student on a first-name basis. TRIO counselors are personally committed to the success of their students.

Performance-Based

Each TRIO Program operates against specific, measurable outcome objectives as clearly defined in each approved grant proposal. TRIO Program directors are held accountable and must meet their stated objectives each year if they expect to remain funded and able to help participants in their targeted service area.

Early Intervention

Two of the TRIO Programs, Talent Search and Upward Bound, are early intervention programs. These programs effectively reach students in grades six through 12 who have "college potential" but often do not recognize or understand their academic and career options beyond high school. Each year, these two programs keep thousands of promising young, low-income and minority students in school and focused on career and college success.

First-Generation & Low Income

Two-thirds of the students in the TRIO Programs come from families with incomes under $24,000 (family of four), where neither parent graduated from college. In most cases, parents have no higher education experience, do not understand the postsecondary process and may not value a higher education.

Built on Relationships

Over a period of several months or years, TRIO directors and staff build both personal and professional relationships with their students. Such positive relationships are critical to the success of every TRIO student and Program. The staff of each TRIO Program creates a climate of support for students as they strive to move out of poverty and dependence. As a result of these strong positive relationships, many TRIO college graduates return to their programs to encourage and inspire current students.

TRIO: TALKING POINTS

Committed to Tough Cases

In most cases, students in the TRIO Programs are poor and are desperately trying to climb out of "the vicious cycle of poverty in America." Many students come to TRIO from neighborhoods that are filled with violence, discouragement, negativity and hopelessness. A single parent raising several children, an older child helping to raise younger siblings, a physically-disabled person with few financial resources and a struggling high school student trying to escape a life of poverty describe the young people and adults who turn to the TRIO programs for help and special assistance.

Consistent and Intense

TRIO Programs and TRIO professionals are consistently available to their students. In fact, some TRIO programs enable students to meet with counselors during the summer, in the evening or on weekends. Many TRIO professionals, as part of their specified program objectives, visit students at home to discuss courses or career plans.

Comprehensive & Cultural

The academic and human services administered through the TRIO Programs are comprehensive and must go far beyond the traditional services offered by high school or college counselors. Many students in the TRIO Programs receive instruction in literature, composition, foreign languages, mathematics and science. In addition, students receive assistance in completing college admission and financial aid applications, tutorial services and exposure to cultural events.

Reality-Based

Like their students, many TRIO professionals had to overcome class, social, academic and cultural barriers to succeed in higher education. As a result, they can effectively relate to their students and know how to motivate young people and adults in spite of the obstacles that often serve to discourage students from low-income families.

Community-Based

Community need is determined by the community, not the federal government. TRIO Programs are funded based on clear evidence that the program is needed in a particular community or town. Criteria used in determining need in a specific area include income level, education attainment level, dropout rates, student to counselor ratio, social and economic conditions, and overall demographic data.

Non-Bureaucratic

TRIO Programs do not involve a large federal bureaucracy because they are direct grant programs funded in rank order based on competitive proposals. In fact, there is no more than one federal employee for every 28,000 TRIO students now being served. In addition, TRIO Programs only exist where local organizations see the need for such services and have successfully applied for federal support. Despite substantial increases in the number of TRIO students and programs, fewer federal employees are working with TRIO today than 20 years ago.

WHAT IS THE COUNCIL FOR OPPORTUNITY IN EDUCATION?

The Council for Opportunity in Education is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia in 1981, representing institutions of higher education, administrators, counselors and teachers who are committed to advancing equal educational opportunity and to promoting diversity in America's colleges and universities.

The Council's principal concern is sustaining and improving educational opportunity program services. The majority of educational opportunity programs are the federally-funded TRIO Programs, which currently operate in over 1,200 postsecondary institutions and more than 100 community agencies.

The Council's Mission

To advance and defend the ideal of equal educational opportunity in postsecondary education. As such, the focus of the Council is ensuring that the least advantaged segments of the American population have a realistic chance to enter and graduate from a postsecondary institution. A secondary purpose of the Council is to provide a voice and a political vehicle for administrators, counselors and teachers who are employed in institutionally, state and federally-funded opportunity programs, especially those professionals with TRIO programs.

Legislative Agenda

- We must eliminate any radical discrepancies in educational attainment based on family income.
- Many students, for their own protection, should be required to participate in various TRIO Programs before receiving any federal financial assistance.
- Members of Congress should join TRIO teachers, counselors, students and graduates who are seeking a full investment in all TRIO Programs, which would give an estimated 11 million Americans a realistic chance to enter and graduate from college.

MEMBERSHIP SERVICES

Proposal Writing Workshops

To assist institutional members in preparing grant applications for all TRIO competitions, the Council sponsors special proposal writing workshops. These workshops include an overview of the proposal development, editing and review process; an analysis of common mistakes made by unsuccessful applicants as well as characteristics of high-ranking proposals. Over 90 percent of the institutions that participate in the Council Proposal Writing Workshops are funded.

Congressional Representation

To build support for our nation's TRIO Programs and to ensure that Americans from low-income families have a realistic chance to enter and graduate from college, the Council has successfully established relationships with key Members of Congress. Through the Congressional Awareness Program, TRIO students, parents, graduates, administrators, counselors and teachers are represented when Members of Congress convene to appropriate funding for various education programs in America.

Liaison with the Department of Education

To keep Directors of the TRIO Programs ahead of changing regulations, the Council works closely with the Department of Education. The Council provides special technical assistance to TRIO Directors nationwide and assists institutions in resolving funding and compliance issues. As an additional membership service, The Council also sponsors an annual seminar that enables institutions to improve relations with the Department of Education.

Annual Conference

Each year the Council sponsors the largest gathering of professionals employed in institutionally, state and federally-funded opportunity programs in America. Participants hear from nationally renowned speakers and have an opportunity to exchange information and ideas with fellow members of the national TRIO community.

Access To Valuable Resources

Members of the Council have immediate access to a powerful information Network. This Network keeps members on top of political, legislative and regulatory events that may potentially affect funding levels for all TRIO programs. In most cases, members who actively network at the legislative level are more competitive at the funding level. Many Council members use the Network to improve their programs and services, to access vital research, to keep up with changing technology and to identify new potential opportunities for their students.

Institutional Members of the Council include those colleges, universities and agencies that are seeking to improve the quality of their TRIO Programs, promote their TRIO students and graduates and advance the ideal of equal educational opportunity in postsecondary education. In addition, all Member Institutions receive the following services . . .

COUNCIL PUBLICATIONS & PERIODICALS

To stay on top of time-sensitive issues affecting Educational Opportunity in America, TRIO Directors and Coordinators, College Presidents, Academic Deans, Instructors, Counselors, Student Affairs Administrators and Admissions Representatives depend on the Council publications and periodicals.

Equality

This quarterly national newsletter contains vital information for professionals who direct, sponsor or support educational opportunity programs in the United States. Items or topics covered in every issue include: grant information; application procedures; news from the Department of Education; changes in regulations & program procedures; developments in federal funding; state news; alumni updates; regional association events; and news from Capitol Hill. In addition, Equality readers access the Council Information Network. This Network includes details regarding various Council Professional Development Training Seminars, the Annual Conference Events, the Annual Policy Seminar and TRIO Day activities as conducted throughout the nation.

Opportunity Outlook

Published twice a year, Opportunity Outlook is the only professional journal in America that specifically examines, critiques and promotes educational opportunity programs nationwide. This journal profiles successful TRIO Programs, professionals, students and graduates. Opportunity Outlook includes articles concerning research methods, policy making and theoretical discourse of common interest to all educational opportunity professionals.

Directory of TRIO Programs

This national directory lists all institutions and agencies that sponsor federally-funded TRIO Programs in America. For easy access, institutions and agencies are listed by state and by program. The Directory of TRIO Programs also includes descriptions for all federally-funded TRIO Programs, the Council's legislative agenda and a complete listing of Council Membership Services. The Directory of TRIO Programs is circulated to potential students, education editors, Members of Congress, governors, Department of Education officials and all State Higher Education Executive Officers in the nation.

Research Studies and Periodicals

The Center for the Council established the Study of Opportunity in Higher Education in 1993. The Center's mission is to conduct independent research on educational opportunity programs and other governmental and institutional policies and practices that impact the ability of low-income and minority youth and adults to enter and succeed in college. Copies of all research studies, special monographs or periodic reports are distributed immediately to all Council subscribers.

Proposal Writing Workshops

To assist institutional members in preparing grant applications for all TRIO competitions, the Council sponsors special proposal writing workshops. These workshops include an overview of the proposal development, editing and review process; an analysis of common mistakes made by unsuccessful applicants as well as characteristics of high-ranking proposals. Over 90 percent of the institutions that participate in the Council Proposal Writing Workshops are funded.

Congressional Representation

To build support for our nation's TRIO Programs and to ensure that Americans from low-income families have a realistic chance to enter and graduate from college, the Council has successfully established relationships with key Members of Congress. Through the Congressional Awareness Program, TRIO students, parents, graduates, administrators, counselors and teachers are represented when Members of Congress convene to appropriate funding for various education programs in America.

Liaison with the Department of Education

To keep Directors of the TRIO Programs ahead of changing regulations, the Council works closely with the Department of Education. The Council provides special technical assistance to TRIO Directors nationwide and assists institutions in resolving funding and compliance issues. As an additional membership service, The Council also sponsors an annual seminar that enables institutions to improve relations with the Department of Education.

Annual Conference

Each year the Council sponsors the largest gathering of professionals employed in institutionally, state and federally-funded opportunity programs in America. Participants hear from nationally renowned speakers and have an opportunity to exchange information and ideas with fellow members of the national TRIO community.

Access To Valuable Resources

Members of the Council have immediate access to a powerful information Network. This Network keeps members on top of political, legislative and regulatory events that may potentially affect funding levels for all TRIO programs. In most cases, members who actively network at the legislative level are more competitive at the funding level. Many Council members use the Network to improve their programs and services, to access vital research, to keep up with changing technology and to identify new potential opportunities for their students.

Institutional Members of the Council include those colleges, universities and agencies that are seeking to improve the quality of their TRIO Programs, promote their TRIO students and graduates and advance the ideal of equal educational opportunity in postsecondary education. In addition, all Member Institutions receive the following services . . .
